SUMMER YOUTH WORK EXPERIENCE

Summer Youth Work Experiences (SYWE) are typically group-based services used to teach students and youth with disabilities vocational skills and appropriate work behaviors. The outcomes of SYWE include participants should be able to identify several vocational areas of interest; possess a general understanding of the job seeking process; demonstrate the ability to meet employer's expectations about quality and quantity of work, work behaviors, etc.; build upon communication and interpersonal skills; and/or address other potential vocational barriers.
